
HLB INTERNATIONAL RAISES OVER 8,600 EUROS FOR CHARITY

HLB International, one of the leading global accountancy networks with a presence in 140 countries, raised over eight thousand and six hundred euros for the Malta Community Chest Fund. The funds were presented to Noel Zarb, Chief Administrator of the Community Chest Fund when the network held its annual conference in Malta from 18-22 October.

The Malta Community Chest Fund is a charitable foundation under the patronage of the President of Malta. The aim of the institution is to help organisations and individuals in need. It helps a vast range of people throughout the year, with the major amounts going towards chemotherapy and specialised medicine which would not be part of the list of medicines given through state aid.

HLB International's CEO Marco Donzelli commented "As a network, HLB International is committed to giving back to our local communities. Which is why, while we were in Malta for our international conference, we partnered with The Malta Community Chest Fund. We're delighted to have been able to support such a vital cause."

HLB's International conference brought together 130 professionals from 33 countries. Sessions during the conference explored the need for successful firms to continuously grow and progress and featured presentations that explored the challenges of connectivity, leadership, trust and development. As well as insights from HLB International member firms, the conference presented well-received key note speakers, including Gale Crosley, a leading consultant in the accountancy field and Adrian Furnam, Professor of Psychology.

HLB International holds several international and regional conferences every year, which are an opportunity not only to hear about the latest developments within the industry but also for HLB professionals to network. It's those close, personal relationships between HLB members that contribute to making HLB a personalised and cohesive network, which allows for the smooth running of clients' business across borders.
